

Financial Assistance Application

MEDGEO 2019 (the 8th International Conference on Medical Geology) will be held in Guiyang, China, during August 12–15, 2019. It is a grand meeting for the global researchers, which's principal goal is to provide a unique opportunity to share new research progress on medical geology and make friends for further international cooperation. Here, we address to early-stage researchers specially to representatives of developing nations involved with medical geology. To increase participation of these groups at the MEDGEO 2019, financial assistance will be provided in two main manners. After the deadline of abstract submission, we will choose five participants to support (a) full awards, which will cover the conference registration fee, accommodation, and flight ticket; meanwhile we will choose ten participants to provide (b) conference registration fee.

If you want to apply the financial assistance, please write an email to medgeo2019@mail.gyig.ac.cn before April 30 24:00 (Beijing time), including your personal information, fee demand for (a) or (b) and the application form.

The application form including the following contents:

- Applicants must be affiliated with a recognized university and institute
- Submit the abstract to the conference
- Applicants must be an active participant in the meeting, i.e. deliver a oral, poster or other original contribution
- Applicants submit a short paragraph on how attending the 8th ICMG would benefit your academic career, institution, country or career in regards to medical geology